Excerpt from Lexington Historical Society, Vol. 1: Papers Relating to the History of the Town, Read by Some of the Members Perhaps no small town has been more frequently honored by the adoption of its name than Lexington. Soon after the event that made our town famous, the news reached a party of explorers who had encamped on the Spot where now stands the beautiful city of Lexington, Ky. Professor Ranck, in an interesting account Of the settlement, says: Delighted with the virgin charms surrounding them, they resolved to make the site of our city their place of settlement, and then and there named it Lexington, in honor of that glorious field where the rebels of Massachusetts had died but a few weeks before, resisting the encroachments of their king. Here, in the heart of a Virginia wilderness and by Kentucky pioneers, was erected the first monument ever raised on this continent to the first dead of the American Revolution. Other Lexingtons followed; and today we find the name given to county, town, village, or station twenty-four times at...
