GRIN Verlag. Paperback. Condition: New. 72 pages. Dimensions: 8.3in. x 5.8in. x 0.2in. Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Politics - Political Systems - Germany, printed single-sided, grade: 1, 7, University of Potsdam (Wirtschafts- und Sozialwissenschaftliche Fakultät), course: Governing Sustainable Cities, language: English, comment: Organisation und Verwaltung Politikwissenschaft, abstract: The task of this assignment is an attempt to put Berlins efforts into perspective and to examine Berlins approach towards becoming a sustainable city from the point of view of a holistic understanding of sustainability. In order to do so the assignment will start with the description of such a holistic conception, namely the so-called pillar-model, which comprises interlinked and interdependent dimensions or spheres of sustainable development - the economy, ecology, political institutions and social aspects. This chapter will combine the description of the model with a summary of two significant documents. Furthermore a special focus already has to be set on issues for sustainable development, that arise from multi-level systems of governance, by analyzing the competences and efforts of the European Union and the Federal Republic of Germany in the political field of sustainable politics - and the deductive obligations for Berlin. As I will demonstrate for...
